The island of Kos is ready, at all levels, to welcome the first visitors. In the difficult period we are going through, the Municipality of Kos, in cooperation with the state authorities, the Hotel Owners Association and all the health institutions, has taken all the necessary measures for the health of the visitors and at the same time to ensure that the hospitality will be, as always, at the best level.

The Municipality of Kos, the health structures and the businesses of the island (hotels, apartments, restaurants, cafes, beach bars, shops) follow all the health protocols required for the occasion.

The strategy that Greece followed to deal with the pandemic was, admittedly, one of the most successful in Europe, and we will continue to do so during the island's tourist reopening.

Kos is ready to host its visitors in the best and safest way.

Yours sincerely,
Mayor of Kos

Theodosios Nikitaras
